Served with Captain Joseph Kellogg (his uncle) at Fort Dummer. He was a member of the celebrated military organization, known as the "Rogers Rangers," which gained such lasting renown in the French and Indian wars. He, and his nephew, Matthew, Agrippa Wells and William Clar, of Colrain, were taken prisoners while on a scout in 1758, and in rowing across the lake his captors compelled him to assist. While so employed one of the Indians vexed him, and Severance resented the insolence, when the Indian slapped his face and knocked off his hat. Severance raised his oar and striking the Indian over his head knocked him overboard, where he was left to his fate. When they arrived in Cananda, Matthew and others were compelled to run the gauntlet, but Martin refused and dared them to make the effort to compel him to run. He was excused. After being in captivity two years he returned by way of Quebec, France and England.

He was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and it is said that one time while in camp and very short of food, he and some companions went foraging and conveyed home their plunder in a coffin shaped box. When they approached a sentinel Severance cried out "Stand aside - dead man - smallpox" and they were given abundance of room to pass. He died at Shelburne Falls, April 8, 1810, aged ninety-two years."

Came to Hadley with his father; was an original owner in the 8000 acre grant, and in 1670 he owned one twelfth of the entire property; in 1669, before the lands were divided, he had broken up several acres, and was our first settler; the committee found him a "Resident," in May 1670; he lived on No. 14; he fell with Lothrop; his personal estate of 45 pouds was "given his widow to bring up their children;" the "Land at Deerfield, alias Paucomtuck, not being valued in regard to the present Indian war rendering it at present of little orth, but being hopeful to prove a Real Estate hereafter." was given to Samuel and Mehuam "the Eldest to have a double share."

Removed from Hadley to Deerfield, where he was killed by Indians, Sep. 18, 1675.

(Hinsdale Genealogy, Herbert C. Andrews, pp. 64-66):

Samuel Hinsdale, son of Deacon Robert Hinsdale and his first wife, Ann Woodward, born about 1641-2 in Dedham, married October 31, 1660, Menhitabel Johnson, born 1644; baptized March 29, 1646; died August 4, 1689; daughter of Humphrey Johnson of Roxbury, Mass., and Ellen Cheney, his wife. Samuel Hinsdale was killed with Lathrop at Bloody Brook, September 18, 1675. He removed with his father from Dedham to Medfield; married at seventeen, and soon after becoming of age, joined the settlers at Hadley. In 1664, he, with forty-four other citizens of Medfield, signed the now famous Medfield Memorial, of which the following is a copy: "To the Honored General Court of Massachusetts Colonie assembled on the 19th day of the 8th month 1664, the humble Representation of the inhabitants of Medfield. Forasmuch as we have heard that there have been Representations made unto his Majestie concerninge divissions among us & dissatisfaction about the present Government of this Colonie. Wee whose names are Underwritten the Inhabitants & householders of the Towne above mentioned, do Hereby testify our unanimous Satisfaction in adheringe to the present Government, so long & orderly established & our earnest of the Continuance thereof, and of all the Liberties pertaininge thereunto wch are contained in the Charter Graunted by King James and King Charles the First of famous Memorie. Under the Encouragement & Security of which Charter, wee or our Fathers ventured over the Ocean into this Wilderness through great Hazzards, Charges & Difficulties. And we humblie desire that our Honored Generall Court would addresse themselves by humble Petition to his Majestie for his Royall favor in the continance of the present establishment, and of all the Priviledges there of; and that wee may not be subjected to the Arbitrary power of any who are not Chosen by the People accordinge to there Patent; so earnestly begging ye sweete presence and blessing of God on all your faithful endeavors Wee shall rest full obedience to support the present Government with our persons and estates. Yours in all humble & faith." He invested largely in the Dedham grant of 8,000 acres at Pocumtuck, where he was the first settler. The town records of Dedham, under date of May 18, 1669, contain the following: "Samuel Hinsdale of Hadley in the County of Hamshier having purchased some property in Pocumtuck in the land granted and laid out to the inhabitants of Dedham, and made improvement by ploughing land there, came this day to the selectmen and gave account of the reasons of his so doing and demanded the laying out of the rights he had so purchased of one of the inhabitants of Dedham, that he might settle himself upon it, and proceed in improvement thereof for his own supply, or if it could not be yet laid out, that then some small parcel of upland might be granted and laid out to build a house upon. To which we answer that we see not cause to forbid him, seeing himself is content to bear the venture of the place where he make improvement; but it not being in our power to do what he demands herein, we think meet to do what in us lies to move the proprietors to promote the laying out each inhabitant's right there, and to that end, that the lots may be prepared and drawn, that some better rule may be had for every proprietor to know where about his own interest lies, and that in the first opportunity." In the spring of 1669, his plowshare first turned up the virgin soil of Pocumtuck. The town was surveyed and the land divided in 1671. In 1672 he petitioned the town of Dedham to appoint a Committee of suitable persons to regulate the affairs of the new settlement, and in 1673 the General Court, "in answer to the petition of Samuel Hinsdale and others, allow the petitioners the liberty of a township," and granted such an addition "as that the whole shall be seven miles square," and "do further empower Samuel Hinsdale with five men of Hatfield and Hadley, a committee to admit inhabitants, grant lands and order all their prudential affairs, until they shall be in a capacity to manage their own affairs." During the two ensuing years the committee was not idle. Lands were granted, claims adjusted, a church founded, and, in execution of one of the provisions of the General Court in its grant, "an able orthodox minister" in the person of Rev. Samuel Mather was settled in the infant town, now known as Deerfield. Immediately preceding his death in 1675, he lived on lot 14 in Deerfield. In 1677, on petition of his widow, the Court gave her this lot for her own. This same year she married, second, John Root, who was killed by the Indians September 19, 1677, while preparing a house for his new wife on this lot. After his death it was again confirmed to her. She married, third, Deacon John Coleman of Hatfield, Mass. She died August 4, 1689. Samuel Hinsdale also owned lots 35, 36, 40, 42 and 43 in Deerfield. In 1670, he owned one-twelfth part of the entire 8,000 acre grant. His personal estate of 45 pounds was "given his widow to bring up their children." Samuel Hinsdale was one of the most prominent and energetic citizens of Deerfield. His son Mehuman was the first white child born in the territory of Pocumtuck. The first white man born in Pocumtuck (Deerfield); settled on No. 14; in 1704 was captured with his wife, and their only child was killed; Mehuman probably came home from captivity with Ensign John Sheldon, August 1706; Nov. 6, 1706, he was offered 23 acres of land at Colchester, as an inducement to settle there, and Nov. 27 he bought 100 acres more; he did not remain there, but was back the next year; April 11, 1709, he was again captured by Indians while driving an ox team from Northampton; he came from Canada via France and England, arriving about October 1712; he was a prominent man in town affairs.

He left a large landed property; an examination shows four home lots on the Street, 175 acres meadow land, 750 acres on East Mountain, 650 at Long hill, 1194 acres mainly in what is now Gill, and 2700 in what is now Shelburne, about 5600 acres in all; he owned, in addition, more than one-eighth of all the undivided land which belonged to the "Proprietors of Pocumtuck."

One of the first settlers of Dedham, Mass.

History of Deerfield, by George Sheldon, Published by E. A. Hall & Co., Greenfield, MA, 1896. p. 201.

Surname spelling includes: Hinsdale, Hensdell, Hindsdale, Robert. One of the first settlers of Dedham and one of the eight men who founded the Church there in 1638; he was also one of the founders of the Church in Medfield, 1650; member of the artillery company; was of Hadley, 1672, when he was released from military duty "on account of age and a sore leg;" he was an original Proprietor in the 8000 acre grant, and Nov. 13, 1673, he and his four sons were inhabitants of "Pacumtuck;" for the third time he was a pioneer in a new settlement; he and three of his sons were drivers in that train which Capt. Lothrop attempted to convoy to Hadley, Mass., Sep. 18, 1675, but which he allowed to fall into the fatal ambush at Bloody Brook, when all were slain

Genealogies of Hadley Families, Embracing the Early Settlers of the Towns of Hatfield, South Hadley, Amherst and Granby, Compiled Sylvester Judd, published in 1905. p. 69.

Dedham, 1638, freeman March 13, 1639, removed to Medfield, thence as early as 1672 to Hadley and later to Deerfield, where together with his sons Barnabas, John and Samuel, he was slain by Indians.

John Hawks, a Founder of Hadley, Massachusetts. by Imogene Hawks Lane, published by Gateway Press., Inc. Baltimore, MD, 1998. p. 15.

Robert Hinsdale was one of the first settlers of Dedham in 1638 and then became one of the founders of Medfield in 1650. He was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts which was founded 13 Mar. 1638. He continued in the service until 1672 when he was released from military duty because of age and a sore leg. At that time he was living in Hadley (Oliver Ayers Roberts, History of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts [1895], Vol. 1, pp. 150-151; Herbert Cornelius Andrews, Descendants of Robert Hinsdale of Dedham, Medfield, Hadley and Deerfield (1906), p. 60). He was an original proprietor in the 8,000 acre grant made by the Dedham people at Deerfield, then known as Pocumtuck. Thus again he was a pioneer in a new settlement.

His first wife was a timid and sensitive woman, while Elizabeth was of a different temperament. The marriage was an unhappy one, and they soon parted. Elizabeth returned to her home in Hadley. At a court held 30 Mar. 1674, they were "presented for living assunder contrary to law," also charged "with lascivious and wanton carriage." On examination Elizabeth refused to answer, and it appears that she was cleared of any wrongdoing. Robert Hinsdale said he "did it as being her head and having the rule of her in the Pointe and that he did it for correction of her disorder towards him." Although he was a respected man in the community, the court held he had "broken the Perfect rule of divine law Mal. 2:16, Matt. 19:6, and 1 Peter 3:7 and the law of the Colony in the intent if not in the letter in the first living assunder," and ordered him "whipped ten stripes on the naked boy;" and imposed a fine for which his sons became responsible and which the court refused to remit after his tragic death. He and three of his sons were slain at Bloody Brook. They were drivers in the train that Capt. Thomas Lothrop attempted to convoy to Hadley on 18 Sept. 1675, and were ambushed (ibid., pp. 61-62; Hist. of Deerfield, Vol. 2, Genealogies, pp. 201-202).

Was the guide for Capt. Turner in his expedition, and was lost in the attack of Peskeompskut.

A sett. of 1673; was guide for Capt. Turner and lost in the attack on Peskeompskut, May 19, 1676; in the settlement of his estate, June 6, 1676, "2 daughters" are mentioned; only one is certainly known; his personal estate was 39 pounds, 6 shillings, 6 pence, land not inventoried.

John Hawks, a Founder of Hadley, Massachusetts. by Imogene Hawks Lane, published by Gateway Press., Inc. Baltimore, MD, 1998. p. 17.

He was a guide, along with Benjamin Wait, for Capt. William Turner, when Capt. Turner left Hatfield with about 141 men. This march with the subsequent attack on the Indians 18 May 1676, and later on the retreating of the men toward Hatfield, is described in detail in a number of sources, including the Hist. of Deerfield, and Hist. and Proceedings of the Pocumtuck Valley Memorial Assn. (1901), Vol. 3, pp. 260-262. Experience Hinsdale was one of a number of men who lost their lives, and thus Mary was left a widow.

In the settlement of Experience Hinsdale's estate 6 June 1676, two daughters are mentioned, but only one is definitely known according to Andrew's Descendants of Robert Hinsdale, pp. 67-68; and Hist. of Deerfield, Genealogies, pp. 202-203.
